If Mississippi and the other Southern States are not capable of deciding for themselves whether their interests would be subserved by admitting foreign born slaves into their own borders, they are not fit to be regarded and to be treated as independent sovereignties. They are easily fit to be the subservient dependencies of those who claim the right to rule over them. With the opinion that the inrule over them. "From past associations taking a lively inter-est in the polities of Mississippi, we feel gratified at this result. For whatever differences there may have been between us formerly in regard to the true policy of the South, we are agreed now that the time has certainly arrived when the South must stand firmly upon her constitutional rights. We want men in Congress who will yield nothing for sake of party. We want men who will have the boldness to take any position a sound patriotic judgment dictates upon grave questions as they may arise, like the noble Quitman, and risk their constituents to endorse them-men who without the fear of the President and his Cabinet, national party organizations or the people they have left behind, will dare to risk place and reputation in defense of Southern honor. We have considerable confidence in Gov. McRae that he is the manner of man we have described, and therefore it is that we are gratified at his re-nomination. Since his return from Congress his mouth has not been sealed in regard to public affairs, and it has been refreshing to witness that his sound, Southern patriotism has not withered and drooped in a Washington City atmosphere, but is as fresh and green as when he carried it there."

Mr. Thompson's positive animitation. Mr. Thompson's positive opinions upon the subject of more negroes, his assertion of the present prosperity of the South, and her gloomy future in the event of the introduction of the barbarians of Africa, reminds us of certain positions assumed by him in a speech delivered in this place in 1839, when he was first a candidate for Congress—his reasons for the faith that was in him then was about no constituted. didate for Congress his reasons for the faith that was in him then were about on a par with that was in him then were about on a par with his reasoning now.

Our readers will recollect, that at the day we refer to, the subject of a reduction of letter postage was being agitated—the postage on a single letter for any great distance of travel was twenty-five cents. Mr. Thompson in discussing the question took the position and jumped at the conclusions, that a reduction would ruin the postal system, not increase the social interchange of letter communication, and be only beneficial to the large cities; in fact, the whole thing being a subject in which the people at large were in no manner interested, and that the commercial men and speculators of the cities were only to be benefitted by a reduction of letter postage.

It would be useless to comment upon this—let the people look about them and see its refutation in every mall bag. But we venture to assert that not many years will pass, before the Hon. Jacob Thompson will have to submit to the force of public opinion upon the question of more African labor, as he was compelled to submit to that claruor for a cheap postal system.

The Oberlin Rescuers Released.

The Oberlin fanaties who were arrested for rescuing a slave and trampling under foot the laws of the United States for the rendition fugitives, have been released,—the Government having determined not to go through the farce of a trial. A Cleveland paper says: "The attempt to enforce the Fugitive Slave act on the Western Reserve by Governmental officials for political effect, has resulted in a most disastrous defeat of the projectors and of the whole scheme.

The news spread rapidly, that the Government officials had caved. Hundreds immediately called on the company to tender their congratulations. In the afternoon, about five o'clock, a hundred guns were fired, and some several hundreds of our citizens gathered at the jail to escort the rescuers to the depot.

At 5 1-2 e'clock, the whole company, headed by Hecker's Band, marched two and two to the depot, through Superior and Water streets, the band playing "Hail to the Chief," "Yankee Doodle," etc. On arriving at the depot, three stentorian cheers were given with a good will for the rescuers, when Judge Brayton, of Newburgh, was called upon for a speech, which he gave in his vivid and elegant style. After this the company bid farewell to their friends and took their seats in the cars, and the train started amidst the hurrahs of the the jail to escort the rescuers to the depot. the train started amidst the hurrahs of the people, the band playing that peculiarly appro-priate air for the occasion, "Home, Sweet Home."
